

Custom Fiber Optic & Electronic Cable Assemblies

CONNECTING

Utilities, Homes & Businesses

Electric utilities operate and maintain their telecom networks to support safe, reliable and secure delivery of essential services. These networks help provide security from physical and cyber attacks.

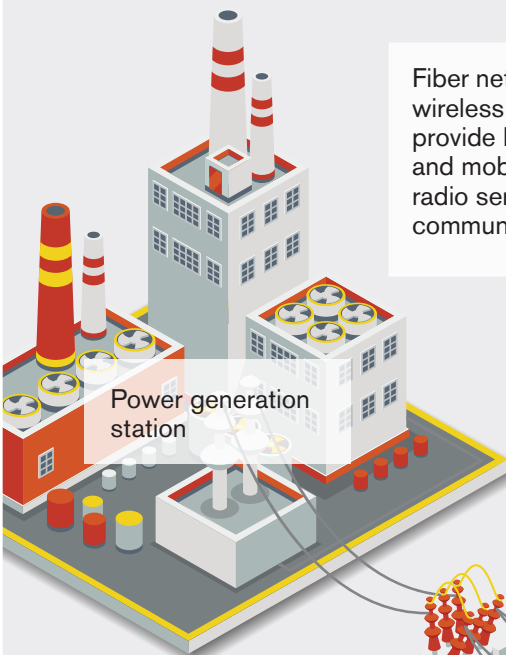

Wireless communications reach customer homes and enable Advanced Metering Infrastructure (AMI).

Utility office backhaul communications

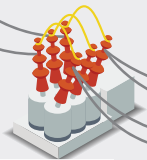

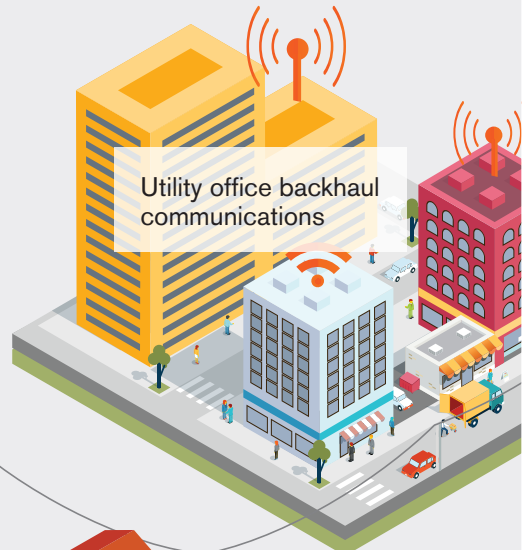

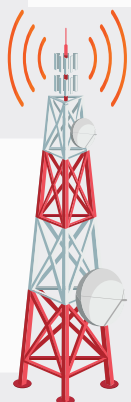

Fiber networks and wireless systems provide broadband and mobile radio services to communities.

Fiber connects power generating stations, substations and control centers to monitor system devices and manage their networks.

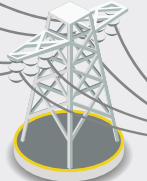

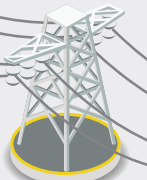

Fiber optic assemblies in the transmission and distribution infrastructure support Supervisory Control and Data Acquisition (SCADA) and Distribution Automation (DA).
